Field of the Invention The present invention relates to an image forming apparatus, such as a copier or a printer, and in particular to an image forming apparatus having a function for correcting image density. 2. Description of the Related Art In a conventional image forming apparatus, such as a copier or a printer, an image which is formed by an image forming unit is outputted using a fixing unit. While the fixing unit can reduce an influence of an offset property of toner on an image, it cannot reduce an influence of the offset property of a surface of a recording medium such as a sheet. As a result, a problem arises in that the surface of the recording medium is soiled. The problem is described below with reference to FIG. 22. FIG. 22 is a view for explaining the problem. Referring to FIG. 22, a solid line indicates a potential of a region of an image. A broken line indicates a potential of a region of a sheet. An image is formed in a state where a toner layer is present on an image bearing body. In this state, a sheet is fed to a fixing unit and the toner layer is heated and pressed to a recording medium by a pressing member of the fixing unit, thereby fixing the image to the sheet. As shown in FIG. 22, for example, in the case where a solid image and a blank portion are both formed on the image bearing body, a potential difference is caused between the solid image and the blank portion on the image bearing body before being subjected to the fixing operation. A voltage V of a region of the image bearing body, the region being the solid image or the blank portion, is referred to as a potential of the solid image or the blank 3da54e8ca3
